State Historic Income Tax Credit Law Amended

On June 9, 2015, Governor Nikki Haley signed into law changes to the South Carolina state income tax credits for historic preservation projects. These changes include an option for taxpayers with income-producing projects to elect a 25% state income tax credit (capped at $1 million credit), and using the credits in three years instead of five years. The SC Department of Revenue is working on policy papers that will provide transition rules. We have posted a link to the revised law on our website <http://shpo.sc.gov/programs/tax/Pages/default.aspx>. More information will follow as it becomes available.

In Memory of Elaine Harris, Mayor of Pacolet

Elaine Harris, Mayor of Pacolet, passed away on May 21, 2015. Mrs. Harris was a strong supporter of history and historic preservation, and worked tirelessly to save and protect the Town of Pacolet's historic and natural resources, seeing them as keys to the future viability and success of this former textile community. She encouraged the nomination of key properties such as the Pacolet Mills Office, Cloth Room, and Marysville School to the National Register of Historic Places, as well as the Pacolet Mill Village Historic District. Under her leadership the Pacolet Mills Office became Town Hall and home to the Pacolet Mills History Museum, Pacolet gained designation as a Preserve America community, and preservation guidelines were developed for the Mill Village historic properties. Mrs. Harris also served on the State Board of Review for the National Register of Historic Places. In 2011, she received the South Carolina Historic Preservation Awards Elected Official Award.

Welcome to SHPO Summer Interns

The SHPO is pleased to welcome two interns this summer:

Sarah Moore, a graduate student in the Public History program at USC, is assisting the National Register of Historic Places program, review and compliance program, and with the update to the state historic preservation plan.

Orin O'Connell, an undergraduate student at USC, is interning with the SHPO this summer as part of an undergraduate history class. He is assisting with the historical marker program.

SC Department of Natural Resources Announces Fort Frederick Film Series

The South Carolina Department of Natural Resources (SCDNR) Heritage Trust Program announces the Fort Frederick Heritage Preserve documentary film series <http://www.dnr.sc.gov/lands/heritage/videos.html>. Archaeological excavations, tabby restoration, and public tours took place at the Fort Frederick Heritage Preserve in Beaufort County during the winter of 2014-2015. This work was documented through a series of short films, which are available on the films web page and in HD versions through the filmmaker's website and Vimeo. A cultural resources vocabulary list and four lesson plans supplement the film series, and a survey is provided to gain feedback from viewers. A film screening of the series will be held on Friday, July 24 at 10 a.m. at the Dennis C. Rembert Building first floor auditorium, 1000 Assembly Street, Columbia.

Online Toolkit Series: How to Save a Place

A Special Toolkit Series: How to Save a Place has been released by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. It is a primer for people who love places but aren't sure how to save them. Read the toolkits blog entries here.
